RELICS OF CIVIL WAR IN
G. A. R. ROOM IN COURT HOUSE
TELL STORIES OF LONG AGO

Relics and Trophies of Civil War Have Been Catalogued to Insure Permanent Record

One of the most interesting places in Douglas County is the G. A. R. room at the court house. Hundreds of relics of the Civil War are kept there as well as guns, flags and mementoes of other wars in which our nation has participated.

Through the concerted efforts of Mrs. William Overturf, regent of the Stephen A. Douglas Chapter D. A. R., Dr. J. F. Gillespie of the Spanish-American War Veterans, and of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars; Mrs. W. C. Blaine, member of the American Legion and former Red Cross nurse; Mrs. John Kent, granddaughter of Capt. Frank Reed; and Lida Jane Hunt, secretary of Frank Reed Post No. 409 for the past eight years by appointment of the Post, and daughter of the late Captain O. P. Hunt, member of Frank Reed Post; and other interested persons, the Board of Supervisors had the Post room re-decorated, thoroughly cleaned, and furniture repaired. The Frank Reed Post No. 409, Grand Army of the Republic was organized February 19, 1884, in Tuscola, Illinois. It was named for Captain Benjamin Franklin Reed, who was mortally wounded in the heat of battle at the battle of Chickamauga, on the last day of battle, September 20, 1863, and died in the hospital at Chickamauga, September 23, 1863.

His comrade, John Welliver, of Murdock, rescued his wounded commander and accompanied him to the hospital, afterward marking his grave so that Captain Reed's family could claim the body. In October, 1863, the body of Captain Reed was returned for burial, where it rests today, in the Camargo cemetery. Captain Reed was a son of Daniel Reed and Margaret Wayne Reed. He married Miss Catherine Barnett, whose descendants live in this county today. Captain Reed was organizer of Company D. 21st Illinois Volunteer Infantry which was known as "Grant's Regiment." This regiment was first enlisted in state service for a thirty day period, and later was assigned to the United States Army, with U. S. Grant as Colonel. He was promoted to General for his valor and ability.

Many of the charter members of this Post were comrades of Captain Reed and the Veterans honored his memory by naming the Post for him.

Fifty-two veterans of the Civil War were present at the organization meeting in 1884, and the enrollment sounds like a list of pioneer Tuscolans, which it is in fact, in part.

The officers of the new Post were:

Lieutenant-Colonel Westford Taggart, 25th Illinois Volunteer Infantry P. C.

A notation is added that "John Thomas Williams of the 2nd Cavalry died July 30, 1881, before the Post was established." Comrade Williams was Chief Bugler on the non-commissioned staff of the Second Cavalry.

A young mother of this vicinity recently said: "I never miss taking my young son to see every Civil War veteran I hear about, for I know that in a very few years, none of the "Men who wore the Blue" will be living, and I want my son to be able to say he remembered talking with a Civil War Veteran."

This statement poignantly brings out the sad fact that the veterans are rapidly answering the Grand Reveille, and brings the realization that few children born after 1940 can hope to see a veteran of the Civil War.

The relics in homes and museums, and the household stories of the veterans, will augment the history lesson of the children of the future and each increasing generation will appreciate more and more, the antiquated firearms, and equipment that were standard military dress in 1861-65.

A look at the several old muskets that are enclosed in the wall case of the Post Room, will verify the quaintness and clumsiness of the firearms of that period. Heavy, but strong in line, the muzzle-loading muskets vary according to the regiment in which the men served. Leather powder-cases, designed to supply the soldier with sufficient ammunition and to keep the powder dry, along with the guns, bring to mind the tedious process of loading the gun, when faced by the enemy who may beat you to firing the first deadly shot.

Some of the guns were made in England; some were Austrian muskets and some of American make, as their trademarks reveal.

The guns have been presented to the Frank Reed Post No. 409 by the soldier-owner or his family and all have been carried on weary shoulders of valiant young patriots who went out at the call of President Abraham Lincoln to "Preserve the Union." Many of the men marched 9000 to 12000 miles during their four years army service.

The Civil War was a sad war, in an extreme peculiar way. Brother fought brother in many cases; and relatives were alienated over the division of sentiment concerning the war. Human rights, property rights, right of secession, religious principles all entered into the fiery discussions that raged in family circles and between families as the war threatened. Mothers and fathers with one son in Blue, fighting for the Union, and another son in Gray fighting for the Right of Secession, prayed for both and that the War would mercifully spare both sons, whatever the outcome.

All the War Mothers and Fathers of the Civil War or Great Rebellion as it is sometimes called, have been called to their Father bearing in their hearts to the last, the remembrance of those days of terror.

Historians concede that the Civil War was the most "unique" war ever fought, as the idea of fighting for the "Preservation of the Union" or from the other angle, fighting to "Secede" over a principle of human rights was new to warfare, where men usually had gone out to make conquests of territory or make material gain.

These guns, battle scarred flags, honorable discharge, officers's commissions, sabres, bayonets, swords, quaint old prints and engravings of a beloved war hero, cannon balls, and shot picked up from battle scarred fields--all are tokens of a day when the boys and men of America went to war to "fight it out."

On the north wall of the G. A. R. room has been hung the Stuart print of President and General George Washington, suggestive of the Colonial Period of American History.

On the west wall, the rugged, kindly face of the martyred president, Abraham Lincoln, depicted in an old engraving, occupies the center of the space, surrounded by his four generals, General U. S. Grant, of Illinois, under whose command many local soldiers fought; General John A. Logan of Illinois; General William Tecumseh Sherman, the idol of the army "sixty thousand strong" that marched with him from Atlanta to the Sea; and General Phillip Sheridan, forever enshrined in the schoolboy's heart through the well-known poem, "Sheridan's Ride" by Thomas Buchanan Reed, 1865. The latter two are depicted in old engravings, mounted on the horses that have been immortalized in history along with their masters.

On this wall, also, is a very large print in color of the famous Battle of the Merrimac and Monitor which will thrill the heart of every history-loving schoolboy and schoolgirl.

A photograph of Captain Frank Reed, for whom the local G. A. R. Post was named, hangs on this wall, a gift from his late daughter, Mrs. Sarah Margaret Helm, whose late husband was also a soldier in the Union Army, the late Robert B. Helm.

The commission of Captain Reed, who is specified as "Captain Benfamin Franklin Reed" was presented to the Post and is among the precious relics of those days of the 1860's.

One flag that is of unusual interest is that of the late Dr. James Lee Reat, which was given to the Post by the Reat family. Dr. Reat was one of the early physicians of Tuscola and lived to an advanced age, a man of sterling integrity and public spirit. His long, heavy beard, high silk hat, Prince Albert coat and gold headed cane characterized the dignity and scholarliness of the "gentleman of the old school," a surgeon in the Union Army who was always prominently identified with patriotic meetings. Dr. Reat's flag, fifty feet long and of proportionate width, was always flung to the breeze from the top of the great hard maple trees that stand on the lawn of what is now the O. A. Collins property.

The size of the flag interested old and young and it was a beautiful emblem that never failed to be raised on patriotic occasions.

There are several flags in the case, some apparently battle-scarred, whose history will have to be searched for in the minutes of 53 years of the Frank Reed Post No. 409.

It is an interesting fact that there were only thirty-three stars in the flag of the United States when the Civil War began, the 34th star, having been added in 1861 during the war after Kansas was admitted to the Union, after a terrific political struggle to make that state a slave state.

Other trophies of war to be seen in the G. A. R. Collection are minnie balls, pieces of trees with shot and shell imbedded in them; a big bass drum and drumstick, an officer's sash, several swords, sabres, and bayonets whose cruel keen edges have been tested by suffering human flesh in the thick of battle, diaries, books about the war and about 37 war scenes and scenes of famous historic homes, including Mt. Vernon, the home of Washington; Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Constitution of the United States; Wakefield, the birthplace of Washington; the Hermitage, home of President Andrew Jackson; and others.

One amusing caustic comment entered in the minutes of the Post was that the "reason the benefit performance of a light opera put on by Frank Reed Post in the 1880's.

did not net any profit was because the members did not support the affair themselves."

The east wall of the Frank Reed Post No. 409 Room, is decorated with the charter of the Spanish-American War Veterans and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The portrait of President William McKinley, during whose administration the Spanish-American War was fought occupies the central wall space, with other mementoes of that period of history.

The south wall bears a fine likeness of President Woodrow Wilson, chief of our nation during the World War, with a large photograph portrait of General John J. Pershing, head of the American Expeditionary forces. Flanking these are photographs of two Tuscola Gold Star Heroes, Sergeant Charles Bassett and Corporal Charles Cooch, both of whom were killed in France and their bodies returned for burial with military honors. Above all the mementoes of four wars, floats "Old Glory" for whom real Americans live and die.

The Frank Reed Post Room has been left by the Board of Supervisors in the care of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, as a meeting place for any recognized patriotic organization.

The Church Records - Baptisms and Deaths on
The Membership Roll, of the First Presbyterian Church, of Charleston, Illinois (1864 to 1956).

Presented by the Sally Lincoln Chapter D.A.R.
Copied and compiled by Lois V. Hutcheson,
Chairman of the genealogical committee, 1956

The First Charleston Church, of Charleston, Coles County, Illinois, was a frame building, built by Presbyterian Pioneers in 1842. Organized June 13, 1835, the Church later merged (1870) in the Presbytery of Mattoon, with the Reverend John McDonald, pastor. There were thirteen charter members, - James Lumbrick, Mr. & Mrs. Thomas O. Roberts, Mr. & Mrs. James A. Mitchell, Mr. & Mrs. William Collum, Dr. & Mrs. Arthur G. Mitchell, Rosina Letner, Mr. & Mrs. Adam Mitchell, and Eugenia Campbell.

The Rev. H. I. Venable, dedicated the church. He was followed by Rev. Robert A. Mitchell, a son of Mr. & Mrs. James A. Mitchell, charter members. The second church was brick and Rev. James A. Piper was the pastor. Following Rev. Piper, were Rev. Knox and Rev. Chas. L. Overstreet. The new stone church was completed in 1918, and Rev. Chas. S. Pier dedicated the building, Sept. 18, 1918 and occupied the pulpit for eight years. Then Rev. Walter Johnston, Rev. S. Parker Allison, and Rev. Wm. Irvine Blair, who is on his twenty-five years as pastor.

CHURCH HISTORY OF WM. BUCKINGHAM FAMILY

In 1687 Welsh and Irish Baptists crossed the Atlantic and settled in Lower Dublin, Pa., called Pennypack. This church was the seat from which influences and men went forth who organized the earliest churches in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

William Buckingham from England was a Quaker turned Baptist. His first known connection was with the Cohansey Baptist Church in New Jersey, where there was no regular church but the members met in homes.

In 1697 there was a division in the Society of Friends known as the Keithian Friends, followers of George Keith. "Among other Quakers baptized was John Beckingham and to them joined Wm. Beckingham, who broke away from the church at Cohansey....In 1700 difference arose among them touching the Sabbath which broke up the Society. Such as adhered to the Seventh Day (Seventh Day Baptists) kept together at Newtown. The rest lay scattered in the neighborhood until Mr. Abel Morgan gathered 15 of them and formed them into a society called the Church of the Brandywine." (Benedict- Hist. of Baptists V. 2 p. 428-29) The Keithian Quakers ended in a kind of transformation into Keithian Baptists or Quaker Baptists. They distinguished days and months by numerical names; held to plainness of language; dress; not swearing or fighting. John and Hannah Beckingham were baptized in the Brandywine Church in 1715, as charter members.

Sixteen Baptists in Wales, about to emigrate to America, formed themselves into a Baptist church in 1701, with Rev. Thomas Griffith, one of their number, as pastor. They came to Pennepek, now in Philadelphia, Pa., where there was a Welsh Baptist Church. Leaving in this place some of their number and receiving accessions in return, they removed in 1703 to Iron Hill, in the Welsh Tract, New Castle Co., Del., at that time a part of Pennsylvania.... Holding to the laying on hands on baptised believers, they refused to commune for a while with Philadelphia and Pennepek churches, but the difficulty was settled, in 1706, on the side of peace and unity. (Cathcart - Bap. Encylop. V. 2, p. 1230) "The Welsh Tract Baptist Church was the principal, if not the sole means of introducing singing, imposition of hands, church covenants, etc. among Baptists." (Benedict- "Hist. of Bap." V. 2, p. 6) John's son William and wife Jane joined this church by letter in 1751 but in 1770 had been baptized and received communion from London Tract Baptist Church, a branch of the Welsh Tract in London Britain, Pa. In 1780 this became an independent congregation with Wm., Jane, and dau., Ruth Cloud, still belonging, but by now son John was in Pigeon Creek Baptist Church in Washington Co., Pa., where by 1784 Wm. was a member.
